An Autumn Suggestion.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow; now, as the human body, exhausted like inanimate nature by the heat of Summer, begins to wilt and droop; now, ere the inclement Winter makes its trying onset; NOW is the time for a preparatory course of the best acclimating medicine in existence,

HOTTESTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Fever and Ague is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phase of the disease which at present pervades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy (so-called) is deadly than the malady. But Quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers.

HOTTESTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given "Fever and Ague Distinct" should be exempted from the disease for any particular time, provided every inhabitant would take the BITTERS according to directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to quell the complaint, when taken daily as a protection against malarial. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official specifics, and now prescribe this harmless vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the forms of chills and fever. Vigor is the thing most useful in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and are the safest, surest, and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. sept. 5.
